

SRV ENVELOPE 22 JANUARY 1987
Paul

003

Site involves a tall, cubical white structure with smaller structure on top, in an area of many trees that have th sense of "cultivated," or "park." The climate here is quite pleasant, and seems to be at some non-US location (AOL of Latin America somewhere), but to have a distant though definite connection with the US, as if this place's purpose for existence rested in what it could do in, for, or to the US. A sense of smug almost egotistical superiority was manifest by people at the site, with the sort of attitude of "I can do anything I feel like doing"—a sense of being somehow "above or beyond the law."

Rapid, jerkily moving images, as those produced by some sort of electronic device, which in turn are associatd with some sort of long, cylindrical, smooth, round-ended object or device are also connected with the site in some way.

Viwer's note: difficult time getting anything particular—couldn't seem to get even a decent AOL.
